DETAILED ACTION

1. Papers filed 01-17-06 has been received and entered. Claims 1-24 remain pending in the application.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to because the reference "INFORAMTION" in step S304 in figure 3, should read –INFORMATION--. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

• A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1, 2, 18 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Walley et al. (U.S. Patent 6,421,283).

Regarding claims 1 and 18, Walley teaches a method of restoring defective memory cells, comprising: checking all cells of a memory to determine whether the memory is defective at an operation start time (column 4, lines 13-16); storing defect information, obtained as a result of the checking, in a memory controller (308, 309 in figure 3) when the checking of all of the cells of the memory is over (column 4, lines 20-25); and replacing defective cells in the memory with spare memory provided in the memory controller when there is a request for access to the defective cells of the memory (column 4, lines 5-12).

Regarding claims 2 and 19, Walley teaches that generating a request for replacing the memory with a new memory when a number of the defective cells in the memory exceeds a predetermined number of data registers (Note that replacing memory with a new memory means that the memory cannot be used. See column 4, lines 57-63).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 3-10, 15 and 16 are allowed.
6. Claims 11-14, 17, 20-24 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
7. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art fails to teach the further limitation of the memory controller comprising: first data registers which store external addresses corresponding to said at least one defective cell in the memory; comparators which compare each of the external addresses stored in the data registers with the external address applied by the system controller; second data registers which are activated depending on a comparison result; a match detector which detects if an external address that matches the external address applied by the system controller exists among the external addresses stored in the data registers by referring to the comparison result; a multiplexer which controls a data path to the second data registers or to the memory depending on a detection result of the match detector; and a controller which loads the external addresses of said at least one defective cell in the memory into the first data registers by referring to the defect information and replaces said at least one defective cell in the memory with the second data registers, depending on the detection result of the match detector, so that the second data registers can be accessed instead of the defective cell.
